Vocus Communications Limited (ASX:VOC), today released its financial result for the half year ended 31 December 2014.

The company's core product groups each recorded strong revenue growth compared to the previous corresponding period. Increasing demand for data services and the take-up of Vocus' product suite, coupled with strategic complementary acquisitions, continue to underpin the company's growth.

The Directors have declared an interim dividend of 1.2 cents per share (cps) fully franked, to shareholders registered on 4 March 2015, to be paid on 18 March 2015, an increase of 50% over the prior period's interim dividend of 0.8cps.

A special dividend of 5.1 cps will also be payable, following approval of the proposed scheme of arrangement with Amcom Telecommunications Ltd ("Amcom").

Commenting on the result, the Chief Executive Officer of Vocus, James Spenceley, said: "This is another excellent result which demonstrates the successful execution of the company's strategy. The result highlights the strong structural demand for Vocus' core products and the attractive nature of the company's integrated offering."
